

DOCOMOTION

Docomotion for Hiring and Staffing Agencies.

INTRO

This document explains the advantages that Docomotion provides to hiring and staffing agencies when it comes to streamlining processes and improving their efficacy when it comes to candidates and hiring companies. It goes on to elucidate the distinct advantages of utilizing Docomotion, which would ultimately allow staffing agencies to resolve their particular issues and thus, acquire a competitive edge.

Staffing agencies are a key link between the company doing the hiring and the candidates. Their reliability is gauged by their capability to provide qualified candidates, collect as much data about the applicant, and carry out all these procedures rapidly, as numerous applicants might apply to the same role from various other sources.

VALUE PROP

Due to the fact that the communication between agents and their peers (candidates and hiring companies) is mostly reliant on paperwork, digitalizing the entire process is critical. Despite the presence of Salesforce-powered CRMs and hiring platforms, a certain factor was missing in order to address the paperwork issues.

Agents were often assigned the laborious tasks of combining information into a unified branded document, rewriting CVs and generating various formats of documents, while collecting extra data such as the employer's reference, tasks that consume considerable time and energy and limit their capacity.

This is where Docomotion plays an instrumental role, serving as a springboard for agencies to totally digitalize and automate their processes, both internally and for outbound communication.

First of all, implementation is very straightforward and quick. Setting up templates can be done via the popular Microsoft Word application, with logic containers embedded using an easy-to-understand visual tool, removing the necessity to seek the help of IT or developers to generate or modify templates. The "no-code" nature of the solution offered by Docomotion is a distinct advantage and contributes to the cutting of costs, with financial savings arising as a result.

Secondly, with the help of Docomotion, staffing agencies can effectively shorten their procedures while at the same time eliminating any human error risks. This can be done through two main features, such as the interactive forms which enable agencies to gather extra information, such as the previous employer's references, and DOC2File feature, which allows them to revise CVs and save these alterations while still making sure that the process is foolproof.

GAIN CREATORS

DOCOMOTION

Achieve a competitive advantage

- Increase productivity - Each agent can handle more candidates
- Improve agency reliability with error-free outcomes

Digitalizing processes

- Populate documents with data from CRM
- Generate documents in different formats and channels.
- Automated flows
- Collect data with interactive forms
- Using pre-built templates, including

Quick response time

- Less paperwork
- Less administrative tasks:
 - Revised CVs easily (DOC2File feature)
 - Ability to make last-minute changes to a document (Live-editor)

PAIN RELIEVERS

DOCOMOTION

Barriers to adopting new technologies

- Easy to implement - Templates are designed on MS Word.
- Short onboarding period

Relying on IT or developers to create or modify templates

“No-code” and intuitive tool to build templates

High Administrative overheads

- Less time-consuming tasks :
 - Generate documents at a click of a button.
 - Easy to modify CVs and save revisions.
 - Collect additional data, such as the employer’s reference saved automatically on the candidate’s record.

CONTACT US

In summary, Docomotion provides significant advantages for staffing agencies seeking to streamline their processes and improve their effectiveness. By digitizing and automating many of their labor-intensive tasks, agencies can save time and cut costs.

With Docomotion's easy-to-use platform, agencies can create and modify templates quickly and easily, without relying on IT or developers. The platform's interactive forms and DOC2File features make it easier to gather additional information and eliminate human error risks.

By utilizing Docomotion, staffing agencies can enhance their ability to provide qualified candidates and offer superior service to hiring companies, ultimately helping them to gain a competitive edge in the industry.

Our complicated document generation requirements have become so simple to achieve, thanks to Docomotion”

Ronit Peter, CIO, Mimun Yashir