RECITALS

WHEREAS, Company A and Company B intend to enter into discussions regarding a possible strategic transaction between the parties (the “Proposed Transaction”) and, in connection with such discussions, there may be a need for one or more of the parties to disclose confidential information regarding itself to the other party in order for the other party to evaluate the Proposed Transaction;

WHEREAS, the parties want to ensure that all such information disclosed by one party to the other party shall be maintained in confidence and not disclosed to third parties;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the above recitals and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

WHEREAS, the parties want to ensure that all such information disclosed by one party to the other party shall be maintained in confidence and not disclosed to third parties;

1. “Confidential Information” means confidential and/or proprietary information, including but not limited to, trade secrets, discoveries, ideas, concepts, know-how, techniques, designs, specifications, drawings, diagrams, data, computer programs, business activities and operations, customer lists, reports, studies, and other technical and business information whether disclosed in writing (in physical or electronic form) or orally.

2. Protection of Confidential Information. The only third party that the receiving party can share the disclosing party’s Confidential Information with are agents of the receiving party who have a need to know such information and who are under non-disclosure agreements at least as restrictive as this non-disclosure agreement. For a period of five (5) years from the last disclosure, the receiving party will not disclose the Confidential Information to any other third party, unless the Confidential Information is deemed a trade secret, then it shall remain confidential until it is no longer a trade secret.

Each party agrees not to modify, decompile, disassemble, or otherwise reverse engineer any software, hardware or other materials provided to the receiving party by the disclosing party.
